WHY WE BUILT IT

Two aims

1

Archive

Scan Aunty’s hard-copy krithis, put them online and catalogue every one

App

Let Aunty and every Keerthana student share and organise their pieces

WHERE WE ARE

Status today

~400

pieces online and catalogued

The full archive may reach about 1,000

All Sankeerthana group pieces are now in the catalogue

Phase 1

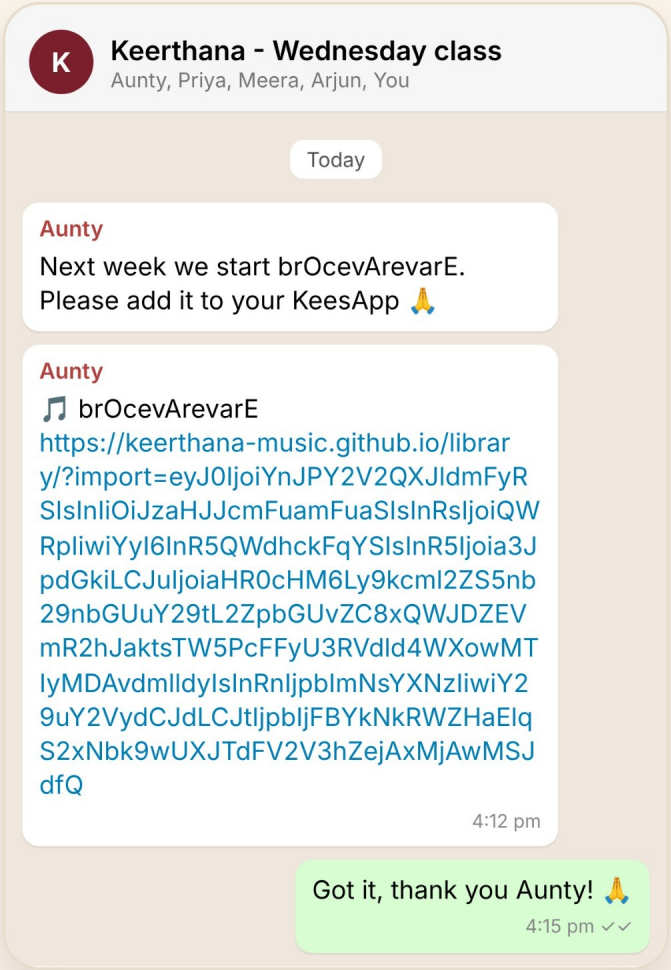

of the app is nearly complete

Being tested now, ready for use soon

RECEIVE

Pieces from Aunty

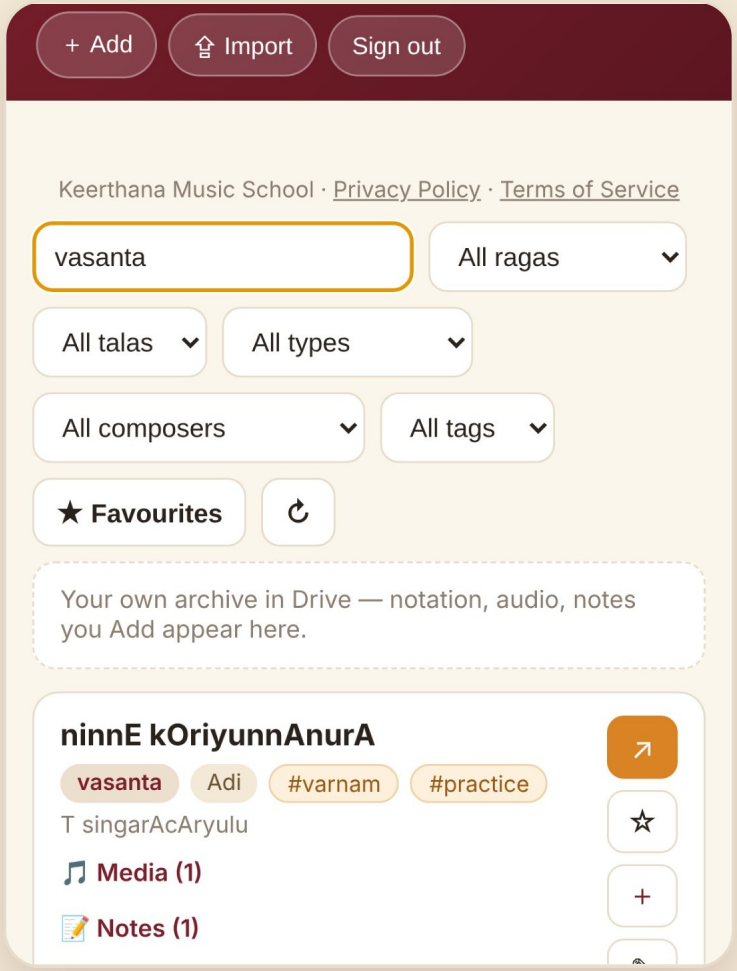

1. A simple link arrives in your WhatsApp
2. Tap it: the piece is saved to your own KeesApp archive
3. Ragam, talam, composer and tags all come with it

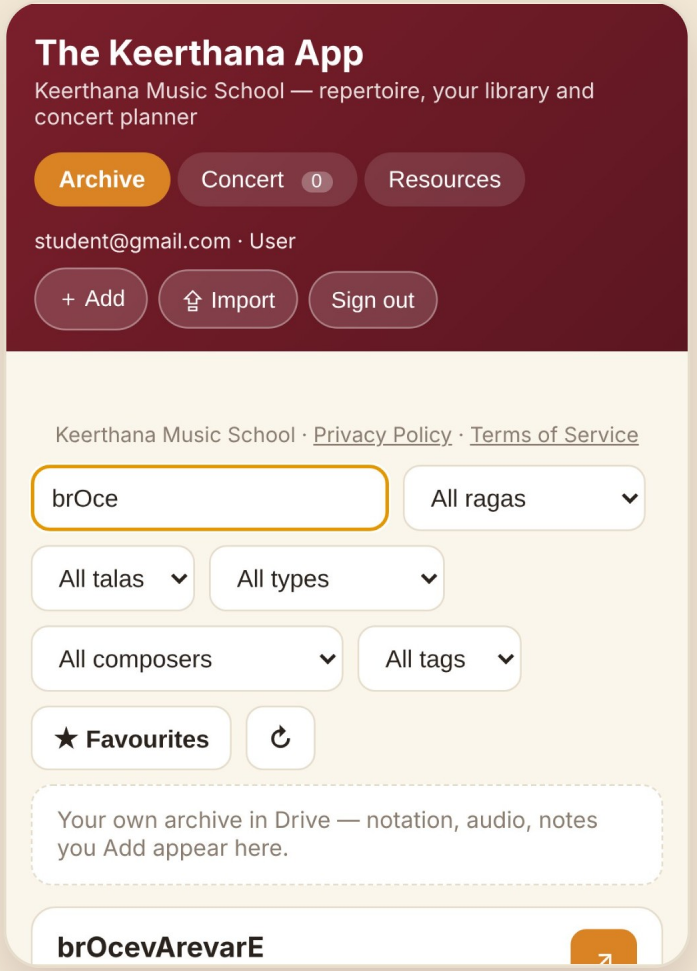

YOUR ARCHIVE

Find any piece in seconds

- Search by name, ragam, talam, composer or tag
- Filter to your favourites
- Tap a name to open the notation
- Recordings and notes sit right on the card

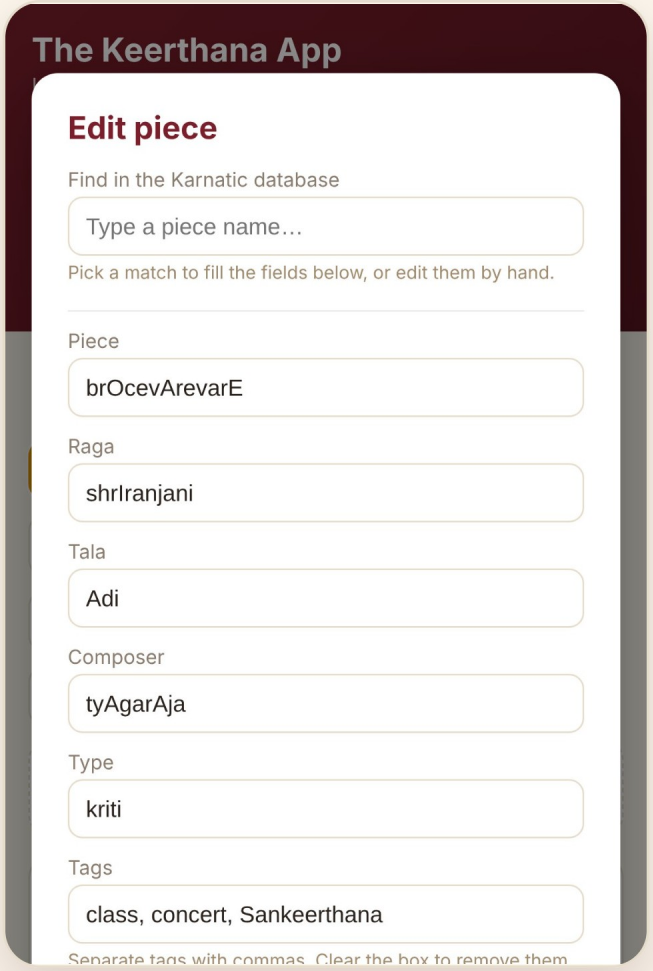

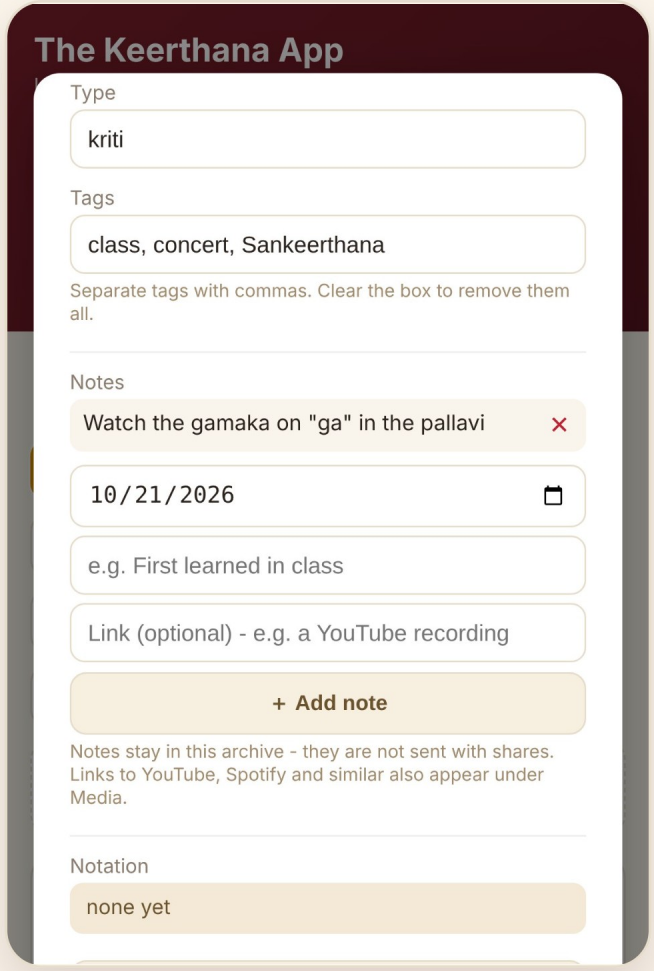

YOUR ARCHIVE

Make each piece your own

- Add your own tags and notes
- Attach extra notation
- Add audio or video recordings
- Link YouTube performances

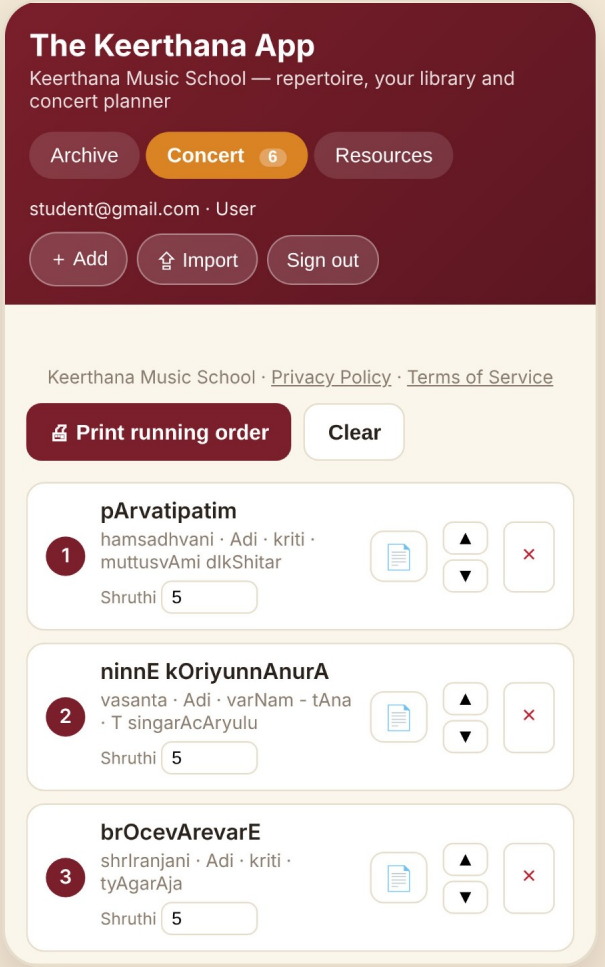

CONCERT PLANNER

Curate a list for your own concert

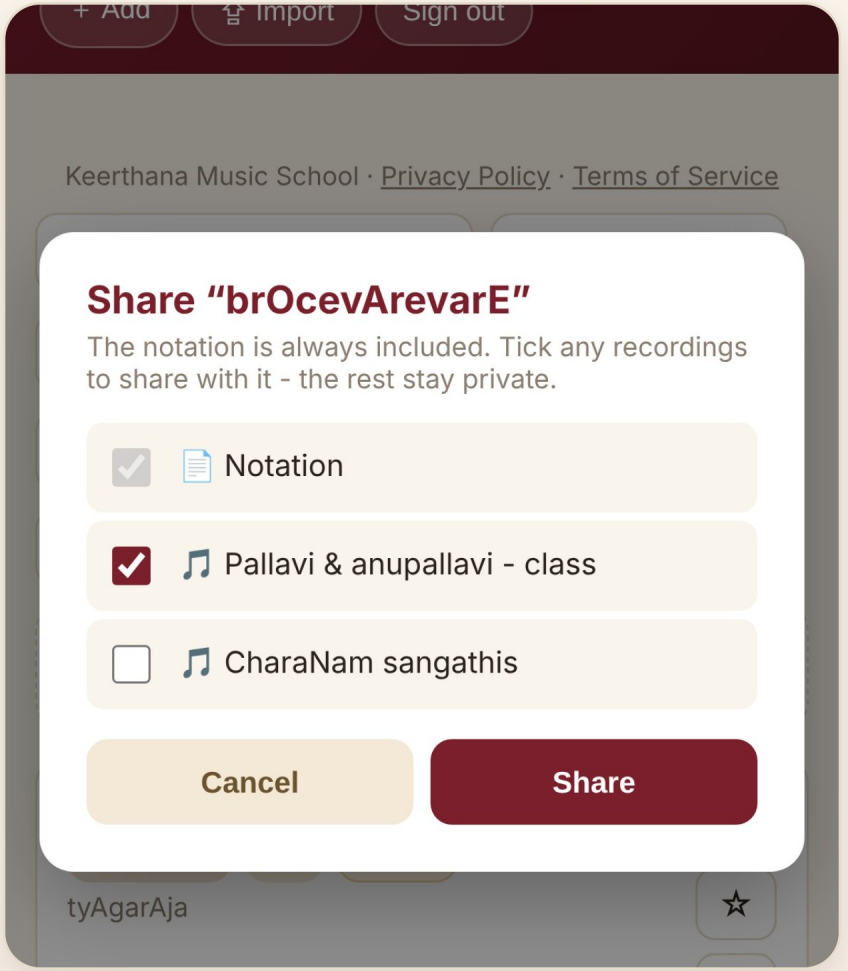

- Tap + on any piece to add it to the list
- Move pieces up and down into running order
- Note the shruthi for each piece
- Print the running order for the stage

SHARE

Share pieces with each other

1. Tap ↗ on a piece: its link is copied
2. Tick which recordings go with the notation
3. Paste into WhatsApp, email or SMS
4. Your friend taps it and saves the piece, with attachments and details

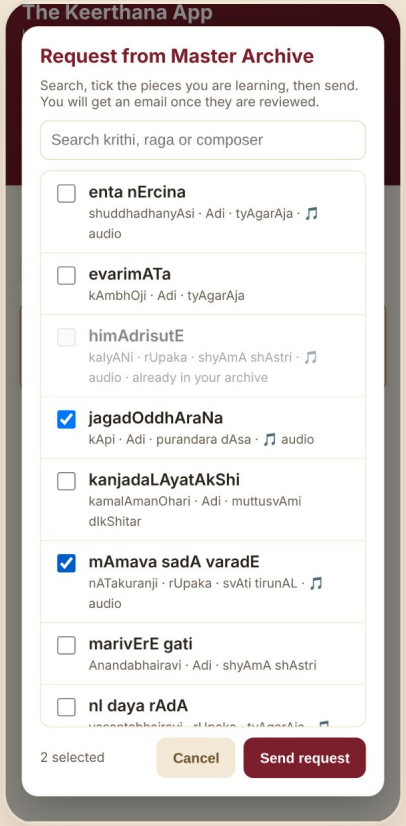

AND ALSO

Other things you can do

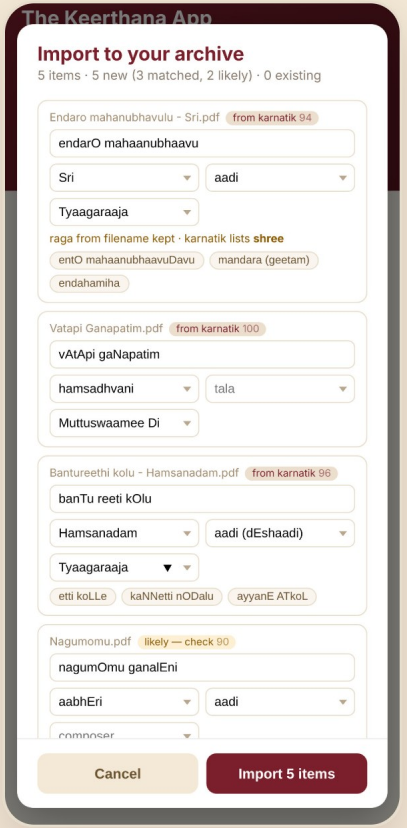

Request from the master archive

Tick the pieces you are learning. Once Aunty or her delegate approves, they are added to your archive automatically.

Import your old collection

Pick your own PDFs. The app suggests the name, ragam, talam and composer for each, saving hours of cataloguing.
